Librarian of Congress, at Washington, D. C.

INTRODUCTORY.

In presenting the fourth volume of the Alpena City Directory, the publishers feel confident it will meet with the approval of its patrons and the public. In the present issue such changes have been made as, in the opinion of the publishers, tend to improve the general features of the work, and the utmost care has been taken to obtain full and correct information in every department. The directory contains 319 pages, of which the first 52 are devoted to useful miscellaneous information relating to the city and county in general, and embrace a street and avenue guide, ward boundaries, city and county officers, police and fire departments, churches, banks, schools, newspapers, railroads, cemeteries, public buildings, halls, etc., secret and benevolent societies, steamboat lines, miscellaneous societies, postoffices in county, townships and township officers, circuit courts, justices, bands, etc., etc. Succeeding these are 235 pages, containing an alphabetically arranged directory of the inhabitants of the city, followed by a list of all persons engaged in business, classified under their respective callings, occupying 25 pages.

This edition of the directory shows 6,206 names, which, with the multiplier of 2½ persons to each directory name—the lowest used in any city in the United States—gives a total population of 15,515. Sincere thanks are tendered to those who, by their patronage and support, materially aided the publishers in their work, and to those who kindly assisted in collecting the data required in the preparation of this volume.

In due time the fifth volume of the Directory will be issued, in which still further improvements will be honestly and energetically attempted, and every effort made to make a complete epitome of the business interests of the city.

ALPENA CITY DIRECTORY.

1891-92.

MISCELLANEOUS DEPARTMENT.

STREETS AND AVENUES.

EXPLANATION.

An order was passed by the City Council authorizing the numbering of all streets of the city, and designating Chisholm street a dividing line for all streets crossing it, or running North and South, and Second street for all streets running East and West. The system adopted is the same as used in Philadelphia and other large cities, known as the "decimal" system—one hundred numbers being allowed for each block. In cases where vacant lots, etc., occur, the usual numbers have been allotted them. On referring to the following guide, it will be noticed that the names of all streets and avenues follow each other in strictly alphabetical order, without regard to location:
